Tumpay, June 20-6 P. M. The gold and stock markets have been extremely de-pressed to-day; but at the close they manifested a recu-perative tendency. At the first board New York Central was I per cent lower than at the second board yesterday, Eric 2, Hudson River 13, Reading 2, Kichigan Southern 2%, Cloyeland and Pittsburg 2%, Rock Island 2%, Fort

The closing quotation for five-twenties—namely, 66% a s will bring lower prices for five-twentles, in conace of the rise in gold; but this will not operate to paper money.

At the open board, at one o'clock, quotations wer New York Central %, Hudson River %, Reading % Michigan Southern %, Illinois Gentral 1%, Clevelan and Pittsburg %, Northwestern %, Rock Island %. to which may be added another twenty thousand sidering that our own mills are spinning at the rate hundred thousand bales a year, and that they formerly consumed eight hundred thousand bales a year; that their stocks of the raw material are extremely light—amounting only to a few days' or weeks' consumption—and that the markets throughout the country are almost as bare of domestic is variously estimated by the most competent authorities at from a million to a million and a half of bales. The next crop of cotton will not be marketable till September, 1866 a period of fifteen months from this time-during which our own manufactories will be likely to absorb one million bales. The quantity available for export will, therefore, be small. Some estimate the present country at half a million of bales, but this is likely to prove considerably in excess of the actual yield. It is the tendency of the present to exaggerate the future to favor of national interests, and, therefore, it is all the more necessary to calmly and dispassionately weigh facts and probabilities if a correct judgment is to be formed upon the course of our trade and finances during the next year or two.

Even supposing that a million and a half of bales of cotton are in the South, much of the whole is so remote advance materially in price at home and abroad before it will pay to bring it to market, or the old railway and river communications of the Southern country will re quire to be fully restored, which is not likely to be the case immediately, although progress is making in this direction along the principal highways.

While our imports are averaging about three and a half millions in specie a week, those for the week ending June 17 having been valued at $3,208,216, while our exports are but a little over two millions in currency, those for the week ending on the 13th inst. having amounted to $2,105,979, the export of cotton can exert but a very temporary influence upon our exchanges, for there is not enough of it. Just now the tide of fashionable emigration to Europe increases the adverse effect of our foreign trade, for each traveller takes with him or at least is likely to draw for a large sum in gold, which we are ill able to spare from the country. The loss of $1,799,743 in specie from the banks of this city last week, in addition to $2,865,873 the previous week, is an ominous sign the specie bankruptcy with which we are uitimately threatened. Of the $16,680,877 of gold remaining the New York banks, a large portion, say one-third, is the property of private individuals, who have it on special deposit. We are experting gold at the rate of from two to three millions a week, and with a scanty store of from forty to tifty millions in the country to this time reduced to siender dimensions, the natural tendency of the premium is plain enough to discerning minds, and speculation can only thwart it for a day or a week. We may flatter ourselves that we are financially strong, but the truth is that we are the very reverse, and that time will be necessary to convince us of the fact.

"Forowarned, forearmed."

The Comptroller of this city will open on Thursday, the 22d inst., at two P. M., the bids for $500,000 Volunteer Seldiers' Aid Fund Redemption bonds. This ban is for the purpose of providing for the redemption of a like amount of Soldiers' Family Aid Fund bonds which become due and are payable on the lst of July next. The loan is duly authorized by ordinance of the Common Council and special act of the Legislature. It will bear seven per cent interest, payable semi-annually, and will be redeemable on the 1st of November, 1868. Lake all the other loans which the city has put upon the market, it is considered a safe and remunerative invest-ment; but it has not the advantage that was extended to some of the loans previously negotiated on advan-tageous terms, to wit: the privilege of long bonds, which arways attract the attention of moneyed men who are seeking openings for the investment of capital at profit-

Court of General Sessions.

TRIALS FOR ROSSERY AND PIONING POCKETS At the opening of the court presental morning his Honor proceeded to pass sentence upon the prisoners who were remanded. The calendar is crowded with cases of robbery, and Assistant District Attornay Hutchings is trying the indictments as rapidly as possible. Robert Spencer, who pleaded guilty to burginry in the third degree, was sent to the State I'rison for two years and four months.

an attempt at burglary in the third degree, was sent to the State Prison for the same period.

Charles Williams, who pleaded guilty to an attempt at

Wn. Datey, who pleaded guilty to a similar offence, was also sent to the State Prison for two years.

Max Adler, Jacob Van Ness and Ernest Dure were placed on trial charged with committing a felonious assault upon Nicholas Ochasifort on the night of the 22d of May, at the corner of Rivington street and the Bowery. It appeared from the statement of the complainant that one of the accused made an improper remark to his wife, and on being asked why he did it Van Ness struck him a blow, while Adler stabbed him in the forchead and shoulder with a pocket knife. Soon after the case was commenced it was shown that Ernest Dure had nothing to do with the affar, and the jirly, under the instructions of the court, acquitted him. Subsequently he was used as a witness by the counsel for the other men. Mr. Dure gave a somewhat different version of the affar, for he said that while standing on the torner on hearing the complainant say, "What do you want with my wrier" he saw Ochsofort beat Van Ness. Adler said to the complainant that he ought to be quiet, and sent for a policetnan.

After deliberating for some hours the jury rendered a verdet of simple assault and battery. Sentence will be passed on Friday.

A BOLD CASE OF GARROTING. of the 7th of June (he having arrived in New York on that day after being paid off by the government), while passing down Wooster street, he saw the prisoner outside passing down Wooster street, he saw the prisoner outside of the door of a house; that he asked him to go up stairs to have a drink, which he refused to do, whereupon he seized him and pulled him up stairs, while another man pul a handk rehief on his mouth and knocked him down on the stoor. At this juncture a colored woman (who is jointly inducted with Peterson, who claims that she as his wife), took a pocketbook containing one hundred and twenty! dollars out of his pocket. The saler was then dragged down stairs, either into the yard or he street, and while there a white woman (also included in the indiction his took from him another walled contain giffeen dollars and his discharge from the savy. He could not tell how long he was lying on the ground tail the policeman picked him up.

defence, who swore that Conner appeared to be sinpidly drunk, and there was no blood about his mouth.

The jury were deliberating on this case for a long time, but at a late hour in the afternoon brought in a verdict of gnilty.

Mr. Hutchings informed the Court that it was his intention to try the other persons who are jointly indicted with Poterson. His Honor said that he would postpone the sentence until they were tried.

Lizzio Smith and Margaret Burke pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, in stealing from James Howell sixty six dollars worth of silver were on the 19th of May. The property was recovered from a pawnbroker's shop. The woman Smith was sent to the State Prison for two years, she having conducted herself in a disorderly manner in the courtroom. Margaret Burke was sent to the Penitentiary for one year.

James Price alios James W. Wright was tried and convicted of an attempt at grand larceny. On the 28th of May, while Jerome B. Latour, a conductor on the Harlem Railread, was leaving the platform of the car, the prisoner jostled against him, and attempted to steal his gold watch, but was caugh, and arrested on the spot He was sent to the State Prison for two years and five months.

Daniel Williams pleaded guilty to fergery in the fourth degree in attempting to pass a counterfeit five dollar bill on the Bank of Fishkul, with intent to defraud August Bartlett. He was remanded for sentence.

Frank Smith, indicted for highway robbery, and who pleaded guilty to grand larceny early in the term, was sentenced to the State Prison for five years. The Recorder, in passing sentence, raid he regretted to have to impose such a penalty upon a man who, before the charge, had maintained an excellent reputation; but the prosent condition of the city, and the increase of highway robberies, made it imperatively necessary to enforce the laws with the utmost rigidness.

John Buits pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, having been charged with stealing a set of silver mounted barness, worth forty dollars, the property of A. W. Sniffin, 1,401 Broadway, on the 12th inst. He was remanded for sentence.

Van Renseelaer Barnhardt was placed on trial, charged with robbery in the first degree. The complainant was an old man, who alleged that on the night of the 18th May, while passing through one of the down town streets, he was attacked by three men and robbed of forty-six dollars. He did not charge the prisoner with taking the money, but recognized him as being one of the party. On being cross-examined by Mr. Kintzing he could not describe the appearance of the men nor their dress, and stated that he was perfectly sober. He could not identify the officer who arrested the defendent. Officer Kobb, who arrested the accused in Liberty street, contradicted the statement of the prosecuting witness, and said he appeared to be under the influence of liquor. Counsel for the prisoner had witnesses to prove the good character of Barnhardt, but Assistant District Attorney Hutchings admitted it. The jury promptly rendered a verdict of "Not guilty."

We are pleased to learn that Count Wydenbruc the Austrian Minister, who recently fractured his arm, has so far recovered as to be allowed by Dr. Carnochan to leave the city for the fresh air of the country.
